THE BOSTON ASTOR. J. Montgomery Sears Fond of Yachting and a Passion for Music.

Boston also aspires to some prominence in the nabob line, although its heavy guns in the matter of wealth seem to be onstructed on a less expansive scale One of the most prominent of Boston's millionaires is J. Montgomery Sears, who is generally known as "Monty" Sears, but with Lis intimates goes under the affectionate cognomen of "Gummy." He recently inherited a fortune of about $12,000,000 from his father, Joshua Sears (who began life as a Cape Cod groceryman), and is married to a niece of Joseph H. Choate, of this city. He was styled the "Boston Astor." owns summer cottages at Mount Desart and Southboro, and spends a good deal of time every year in yachting, being a member of Somerset, Union, Country, St. Botolph, and Eastern Yacht Clubs. His particular hobby, however, is for music, and for this art he is an enthusiast. During the winter season he always gives one or two musicales every week at his house in Arlington street, to which both amateurs and professionals contribute their talent. He possesses an extensive musical library and has made a fine collection of old violins, one of them a genuine Amati of rare tone, which he prizes highly. He is said be somewhat o an expert in handling the instrument himself, and when he is at Southboro in the summer he fiddles in the choir of the village church. He is a graduate of the class of 1877 of Yale College, where he did nothing in particular to distinguish himself being particular and unohirusive himself, being very quiet and unobtrusive in his demeanor, and never showing any inclination to associate with the generality of his classmates. He never occupied a room in the college buildings or had a room-mate, but lived quietly in a modestly-furnished apartment in a retired street. Although in his senior year he was a member of the famous "skull and bones" society, it was a matter of common talk among the under-graduates that he did not seem to prize the honor greatly, for he seldom attended the weekly meetings, and, in fact, has shown very little interest in the college since his graduation. He took some interest, however, in athletics, especially in basepall, and was at one time a substitute in the University nine and generally played in all the class games. During the win-ter he was to be seen every day in the 'gym" training with the members of the University, attired in the regulation suit. Mr. Sears is the youngest member of the ultra-exclusive "Thursday Evening Club" of Boston and is fairly popular in society. He is of medium height, slightly inclined to be stout, with sandy hair and mus-

teche. PADDY RYAN AS AN ACTOR.

Writing a Play in Which he is to Star as a King of the Prize King.

Writing from Troy a correspondent says: "M. J. Nerney, of the Gilbert Car Works, Troy, formerly an actor, and who has written several clever dramas, has rewritten his land league piece, 'Morna Doon," to fit Paddy Ryan, arrangements are in progress for its proroad in March next. The scene of the play is a located at Thurles, County Tipperary, Ireland, where Paddy was born, and much of the story relates to an eviction brought about by a refusal of marriage. Paddy in the play is Paddy Ryan the American boxer, and son of the evicted couple, and arrives from America in nobby wardrobe, including high hat, silk-lined overcoat, satchel on shoulder-strap, gloves, etc., just in time to do the most good. An English boxer is in the service of the landlord, and it is between this English boxer and Ryan that much of the lively business of the play takes place. The last act illustrates a full-fledged Donnybrook fair, in which, English boxer-who will probably be Chandler, of Chicago-have a full fourround set-to. Paddy is enthusiastic over the idea, and leaves Troy for Chicago to see Chandler. Some unwise advisors caused Paddy to demand 75 per cent as his share of the business; but Paddy promised your correspondent this evening, after having the matter fully explained to him, and the value of the author's and manager's service, and his risks fully set forth, to take 65 per cent of the net, which Mr. Nerney will probably accept. If all goes well, the play will be brought out for a few nights at Rand's house, this city, that it may be praned, and got into fine working form before taking the road. Mr. Nerney says the play will require twelve speak-ing people, and that he intends to procure artistic pictorial work and mount it thoroughly. The drama will probably be called "Terry the Fox."

At the drawing of the Louisiana State Lottery, on January 12th, Houston struck a bonanza. No. 70,658 drew the Third Capital Prize of $10,000, and two-fifths of the ticket were sold here. MILAN AFFECTS THE MARKET

The Rumored Plot to Depose the Servian New York Graphic: If New York has its Astors, its Vanderbilts and Goulds, King Gives Wheat Some Life.

BUT FAILS TO SEND PRICES UP.

A Booming Day's Business in Corn-Notable Sale of Prime Nebraska Cattle Reported-General Markets.

CHICAGO GRAIN MARKET. CHICAGO, Feb. 16 .- [Special Telegram.] -WHEAT - The markets were lazy to-day. Wheat opened where it left off the day before, but it didn't stay there long. May declined from $436e to 8336e, with good trading around 84c. The market reacted to 841/4c, and listlessly dropped back to 53%c. Just before the noon hour a bulletin about the discovery of a plot to depose King Milan started the scalping crowd to buying, and in less than fifteen minutes the loss of the entire morning was recovered. What the cold wave, scattering country orders, a decrease in the visible fully up to bull expectations and the underlying bull sentiment could not do. this inconsequential gust of gossip brought about in an astonishingly short space of time. The first excitement of bulge having subsided, fractions began to drop off again, but before the market had receded far, Dows, Munn & Co. came on the scene with a buying order for 300,000 or 400,000 bushels, and this set everybody to buying again. The closing at 1 o'clock was at the highest point of the morning. Conn-There was an awakening in the corn pit to-day. The opening was rather soft on an increase of nearly 1,000,000 bushels in the visible supply, and the market dragged along without much life for quite a while. It gradually hardened, and during the last hour of the long session business was exceedingly lively, everybody trading in big lots and without hesitation. Fleming & Boyden and Norton & Worthington bought 1,500,000 bushels between them, Baker 200,000 or 300,000 with small transactions scattering. The crowd generally was selling, Brown, Nat Jones and Pool being the most liberal dispensers of the cereal. May was the most traded in. At 1 o'clock 41c was the price paid, but after the official trading was over Baxter bid 41@41%e for 250,000 bushels. OATS-Oats were quiet and rather firm

PROVISIONS—The demand for the hog product continues to be moderately active, the south taking meats liberally and the east hams. Option business was dull to-day and local in its character, and the changes in closing prices as compared with yesterday insignificant. Prices of the product sagged during the middle of the morning session in sympathy with wheat, but recovered later.

AFTERNOON BOARD-Wheat was easier on the afternoon board, and provisions seemed to sympathize with the seftening temper of the market Corn weakened a trifle at the outset, but firmed up and sold higher than at 1 o'clock. 2:45 p. m .- Puts on May wheat, 83%e; calls,

CHICAGO LIVE STOCK.

CHICAGO, Feb. 16,-[Special Telegram.]-CATTLE-Receipts of cattle to-day were not heavy, and there seemed to be no more fat cattle than buyers ought to want at about steady prices. Salesmen asked stronger prices, and this tended to make trade very slow. The general market was quiet and declared weak, one or two salesmen going to the extreme of quoting prices 20c lower. Shippers were nearly all out of the market, as usual on Tuesday, while dressed beef men were tiguring that yesterday's advance would bring liberal runs, and so they demanded lower prices. The market was very weak especially on shipping cattle. There were lery stock on the market. Prices ruled a little lower on sales made and there were some lower had they been forced at the prices offered. Among the sales were 28 bulls, 1839 lbs, at $3,25; 13 cows, 1251 lbs, at $3,35; 14 cows, 1238 lbs, at $3.75. Shipping steers, 1350 to 1500 lbs, $5.10@5.70; 1200 to 1350 lbs, $4.50@ noteworthy sale to-day was that of fifteen very prime Nebraska cattle, which were marketed by James Galloway, of Adams, Gage county. Twelve cowing 3-year-old steers and three yearlings, averaging 1473 lbs, sold at $5.15. They were raised and fed by Mr. Galloway. Hoos-Trade was fairly active and values about a nickel lower than on Monday on common, light and medium, and about a nickel higher on prime to choice heavy, the same selling at $4.45\alpha 4.55, with the ordinary run of packing sorts selling at $4.15\alpha 4.55, and odds and ends at $3.95\alpha 1.10.

OMAHA LIVE STOCK. Tuesday Evening, Feb. 16. The receipts of cattle were heavier to-day, but the sales were very meagre and there were a good many left over. Prices remained steady at former quotations. The quality of butcher stock coming in the past few days has been very poor, there being an excess of old, thin, shelly cows and poor heifers. While prices on this class of stock have not reached a very high point, they have none the loss been high when the quality of the stock sold is taken into consideration. Steers averaging 1,200 to 1,300, $4,00.44.25, and choice grades, averaging 1,400 to 1,450, at $4,35@4.50. Good choice heiters are in demand at $3,00.63,25.

The hog market opened strong at yester-day's prices and a few loads were sold on that basis. Later the reported decline in eastern markets caused a drop. After that it was difficult for the buyers and sellers to come together, the former holding out for a heavier decline than the latter were willing to admit. The market closed dull at a decline to admit. The market closed dull at a decline of about 5c. Choice packing hogs are quoted at $3,95\alpha 4.05; good mixed $3.85\alpha 3.96; com-mon rough hogs, $3.75\alpha 3.80. Skips are not wanted and do not sell readily. wanted and do not sell readily.
